Description

We are living in a very special time—the period just before the coming of the Lord! Very soon the day will finally come: “Yet a little while, and the coming one will come and will not delay” (Heb. 10:37). Directly following this great promise is the remarkable sentence, “But my righteous one shall live by faith” (v. 38).

This raises the question: What does it actually mean in concrete terms to take God at His word and to live by faith every day? This is exactly what this book is about. It shows the different aspects of a real life of faith that God presents to us in the Bible.

These practical challenges are illustrated by many impressive and inspiring examples of men and women of faith from church history who experienced in many ways that God really keeps His promises.

The individual devotions are intended to strengthen the reader in faith while at the same time challenging each one to honour God by trusting in Him. Even in these last days, just before the coming of the Lord, we can trust Him for great things!
