Description

The Epistle to the Romans is the first of the apostle Paul's epistles we encounter in the New Testament.

Leslie Grant in his comments on this treatise tells us that "in Romans God graciously orders the presentation of the truth so as to meet the sinner where he is and lead him experimentally through soul exercise out of bondage and darkness into liberty and light, establishing the feet in paths of truth according to His righteousness."

Leslie M. Grant lives in the Seattle, Washington (USA) area and has served the Lord in full time service for over 65 years. He has written a number of books available through Believers Bookshelf, Inc.
