The Call of the Bride and Other Gospel Papers by W.T.P. Walston

The story of Abraham sending his servant to seek a bride for his loved son Isaac is a beautiful illustration of the gospel. The servant, type of the Holy Spirit, was true to his errand of love to bring home the bride. When the question was put to Rebekah, "Wilt thou go with this man?", she was ready to answer immediately. She had heard and believed the report of Isaac, and her simple answer was, "I will go." May our response to the message of the love of Christ be: "The Son of God ... loved me, and gave Himself for me." Galatians 2:20.

Mr. Walston's simple gospel messages have rejoiced the hearts of many of the Lord's people. Lost souls have been saved through his clear presentation of God's love, while many a careless person has been awakened to the urgency of de-ciding for Christ.
