Description

This book contains 52 short chapters, one for each week of the year as a fitting preparation for the Lord's Day. To quote Edward Dennett, "The Jewish Sabbath commenced on Friday evenings, and I have often thought if we could begin the Day of Days on Saturday evenings ... we should be far oftener in the Spirit on the Lord's Day. "

The style is concise and devotional - choice excerpts from writings of men like J. N. Darby, G. V. Wigram and Edward Dennett.

The message and burden of this book: "To seek Him only" - to learn of Christ - to walk the pilgrim pathway marked out by the Son of God.
